

BREWING NOTES

Pandora Pilsner

Named after the Estuary across the road from the brewery - locally known as Pandora Pond. This beer is our take on a classic European Pilsner. A clean, crisp and refreshing beer, light golden in colour with a subtle malt base and pleasant bitterness.

Ahuriri Pale Ale

One of our best-selling beers Ahuriri (the Maori place name for Napier) is a typical Pale Ale. Golden colour with a hoppy lightly perfumed nose. Good balance between malt base and not too bitter hoppy finish.

1851 English IPA

1851 the year the Westshore Beach Inn (the spiritual home of Napier Brewing) was built. This beer is reminiscent of the classic IPAs that the POMs used to ship to their colonies. Enough hop to make it last and a strong malt base to make you feel at home.

The GlassHopper Series

GlassHopper NZ IPA

Never brainstorm beer names when you had one too many already. This is the hoppiest beer in our range yet. Hoppy beer? What else can hop? Let's take rabbits! First we let them hop on each other and then let them hop in the glass to get drunk..... (well, maybe we had more than one to many).

FreshHopper NZ IPA

If you like hoppy beers and think that balanced beers are for Sissies then the FreshHopper is the beer for you. Essentially the same brew as its older brother the GlassHopper but with heaps of freshly harvested hops from the Motueka region.

The HILLbilly Series

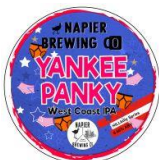

HILLbilly American Pale Ale

Every brewer tries to do one - a beer with a perfect balanced of sweet malt base and bitter hop finish. Here we go - tell us if you agree we did a good job. The billy goat on Napier Hill is our way to highlight that Napier is just a regional centre but with regard to brewing we are everything but hillbillies.

Yankee Panky West Coast IPA

Can hops be promiscuous? Well, the American hops in our West Coast IPA certainly has an intense love affair with the malt - go Yankee Panky! Although the American hops tries to be dominant (no surprises there) the malt puts it in its place.

Special Release

Perfume Point East Coast IPA

You don't like the look of cloudy/unfiltered beers? Then you have two options: Either give this beer a miss or close your eyes while drinking - the latter will only intensify the zesty citrus flavour explosion in your mouth. Those familiar with Napier's Perfume Point will easily link the colour of this murky brew with the landmark's past.
